Risk class of the device:	I
Rule of classification:	Appendix VIII, Rule 1
Medical device nomenclature code:	12-469

Intended purpose:

Multiple use bed protection pads are medical devices of risk class I, which are equipped with a moisture-impermeable coating and have a certain absorbance to soak urine, sweat or other liquids. They are used in particular for people with severe incontinence and/or for largely immobile bedridden persons in order to increase the skin and tissue protection by absorbing fluids. In addition, a feeling that is as dry as possible for the patient/affected person is achieved and the mattress is protected from ingress of moisture and dirt.

We declare under our sole responsibility that all above stated products fully comply with the general safety and performance requirements of the European guideline MDR 2017/745 according to appendix I and the conformity assesment according to appendix II and III and thus carry a CE-mark.

The above declaration is valid until December 31st 2026.
